LIMITATION OF TAXES MEASURE
RULED INVALIDJudge Cole in District Court at Fargo Renders Decision on Statute

EFFECT ON THE LEVIES

Matter Expected to go to the Supreme Court for Final Decision

The 1921 statute limiting tax levies of counties, cities and other political subdivisions, will go before the supreme court of North Dakota for final decision, it is expected here by state officials.

Judge A. T. Cole, of Fargo, held the statute is unconstitutional. It is certain to be appealed to the supreme court of the state, officials say.

The case in point was brought by Stewart Wilson, Fargo contractor, in the form of an action to restrain the city commissioners from holding an election to increase Fargo's tax levy 25 per cent.

D. B. Holt, attorney, arguing the statute is unconstitutional, maintained that the law violated three provisions of the constitution, namely: requirement that no bill shall contain more than one subject, that each bill shall be read three times in each house; that there shall be no amendment to any bill changing its original purposes. He said the law covered two subjects, tax exemption and limitation of levy, and that after it had been amended as to be a new bill in the senate it was sent back to the house and read only once.

Judge Cole had previously held that the limitation law applied not only to a budget as a whole but to individual items in a budget. He held that the county commissioners of Cass county could not levy a tax for bridge purposes greater than the average amount for the last three years.

Passed After Fight.

The tax limitation law, which was passed after a vigorous fight last winter, provided that counties, cities, etc., could not levy a tax greater than the average tax for the years 1918, 1919 and 1920, it being the intention to curb extravagant tax levies. Special provisions were made regarding school districts.

If Judge Cole's decision holds there will be no limit on the taxing power of local authorities.

VALUE PARKS IN MINNEAPOLIS
AT 20 MILLION

Minneapolis, Aug. 17.—Minneapolis find recreation an expensive property. City parks and playgrounds are estimated to be worth $20,000,000, half of which is real estate value and the remainder the cost of improvements, according to James A. Ridgeway, secretary, board of park commissioners. The city owns 4,044 acres of park property which represent 100 separate pieces of land.

McKENZIE TAKES HOLD AT ST. PAUL
FARM LOAN BANK

The St. Paul Pioneer Press has this to say about "Elder" McKenzie's appointment:

"Donald J. McKenzie, of Forman, N. D., has been appointed by the Federal Farm Loan board to succeed Fred W. McLean as registrar of the Seventh District Farm Land Bank here, according to advice received from Washington Monday night.

"McLean, who has acted in the joint capacity of registrar and general counsel of the bank since its organization four years ago, will now devote his time to the duties of general counsel, exclusively. Heretofore, it has been the rule that the registrar must be an attorney, but the board recently reached a decision that this custom was not only unnecessary but that it restricted the choice of possible candidates for the position.

"Mr. McKenzie has in past years been prominently identified with North Dakota state politics, before the reign of the Nonpartisan league faction there, and has remained loyal to the principles of the Republican party, according to advice from North Dakota.

REOPENING OF RATE QUESTION
ASKED IN FARGO

Fargo, N. D., Aug. 17.—Reopening of the entire question of rates to be charged here for electricity, gas and steam was requested today by the Fargo city commission in a resolution. The resolution also asked that the state board of railroad commissioners reconsider the temporarily allowed 7-cent street car rate.

The office of the state attorney general, William Lemke, also instituted two actions in the Cass county district court aimed at forcing the Union Light, Heat and Power company to make a full 25 per cent rebate on electricity charges as recently ordered by the court.

Bathers' Parade, Elks Committee Announces

Friday and Saturday are pool days. An Elks Water Carnival and Festival will be given in an effort to clear a great part of the $2,000 deficit on the swimming pool.

The events for the festival include all kinds of aquatic sports at the swimming pool, a benefit baseball game between Bismarck and Fargo Friday afternoon, street dance and show at the Rex theater Saturday night.

Hundreds of visitors from out of the city are expected to be present for the affair. Two big days of amusement, with something nearly all the time, are promised by the committee in charge of the affair.

Many committees are working on the entertainment under the direction of Jack Ober, general chairman. The program in a general way follows:

Friday afternoon Sports at swimming pool.

Friday at 8:15 Ball game, Fargo vs. Bismarck.

Saturday afternoon Sports at swimming pool.

FUNDING BILL
FOR RAILROADS
PUSHED ALONGReported Out Favorably By Senate Committee, One Republican Opposing

Washington, Aug. 17.—Favorable report on the administration's railroad funding bill was ordered by the senate interstate commerce committee by a vote of 7 to 2.

The bill would authorize the war finance corporation to use not to exceed $500,000,000 to purchase railroad securities from the railroad administration and prescribe interest rates upon securities hereafter accepted from the carriers.

It would also permit reopening of settled accounts with the railroads for the funding of securities of these roads went out in committee and a provision was added to prevent railroad funding from interfering with aid for financing agricultural exports. The life of the corporation would be extended to July 1, 1922, under another committee proviso.

Senator LaFollette, Republican, Wisconsin, voted with Senator Stanley, Democrat, Kentucky, against the bill while Senator Pomerene, Democrat, Ohio, voted for it. It developed during consideration of the bill that the war finance corporation is now attempting to form a syndicate to purchase government holdings of railroad securities and relieve the government of further railroad funding operations.

TAX ON TARIFF,
FIRST PROBLEM
OF COMMITTEE

Washington, Aug. 17.—The senate finance committee will determine next week whether tax revision or tariff will take precedence for enactment, Chairman Penrose said today. The committee decided to continue hearings on the tariff measure through next week, taking up metals.

Mr. Penrose said he believed the tax bill could be disposed of before the beginning of the tax year without great haste, he said. Members of the committee had given him no opinion as to which bill they wanted handled first, he said.

$30,000,000 BOND ISSUE FOR LOANS
TO FARMERS OF NATION IS PLANNED

Chicago, Aug. 17.—An issue of $30,000,000 worth of 5 1/2 per cent bonds is to be issued at once as a result of action taken here at a meeting of the American Association of Joint Land Banks yesterday.

Several syndicates are figuring on handling the issue, it is understood, the proceeds being loaned to farmers to help ease the tight financial situation. This issue with others to be followed by December 1 will make a total of about $150,000,000 loaned to farmers by banks this year, officers of the association said.

DEVALERA STILL FIRM FOR PEACE
ON IRISH TERMSReiterated to Irish Parliament
That Independence is Demanded By Irish

REJECTS BRITISH OFFER

Many Officials Are Still Hopeful, However, of Peace Resulting

Dublin, Aug. 17.—(By the Associated Press.)—Eamon DeValera, Irish Republican leader, reiterated today that the Dail Eireann would not accept the terms offered by the British government extending to Ireland an offer of dominion status.

Mr. DeValera made this declaration at the second session of the Dail Eireann held at the Mansion House to take up the question of negotiations with Lloyd George regarding a possible Irish settlement.

At the opening of the Irish Republican parliament yesterday, DeValera, in an address to the members declared that for Ireland, he and his colleagues stood for the ideas embodied in the American declaration of independence. He reiterated Ireland's claim to separation from the British empire and asserted that the cabinet of the Republican parliament was the sole government the Irish people recognized.

Sinn Fein Position.

Referring to the peace negotiations with David Lloyd George, Mr. DeValera said there were people who desired to negotiate in order to save their faces. The Sinn Fein, however, would negotiate only to save possible bloodshed and for right and principle. He declared that the cabinet in refusing the proffer of a dominion form of government by Mr. Lloyd George had taken this step because it considered his proposals unjust.

Mr. DeValera's address was listened to attentively by the 120 members of the Dail Eireann gathered from all parts of Ireland. It was delivered after Professor John McNeill had been chosen as speaker of the parliament. Mr. DeValera promised that at the session tomorrow he would outline the negotiations he had carried on with Mr. Lloyd George, and afterwards the parliament might consider the situation behind closed doors.

Notwithstanding the attitude of the members of the Dail Eireann in taking an oath of allegiance to the Irish Republic—an oath which in former days would have been termed high treason—and DeValera's reiterated demand for the freedom of Ireland, British civil officials in Dublin, many of whom assert that they have channels of communication with the inner workings of the Sinn Fein, are still hopeful of a settlement of the Irish problem.

It was claimed that the move was not aggressively precautionary because the last thing the British government would do would be to take any steps to break the Irish truce. It was declared that it was realized in official circles that the truce of the first shots on either side was likely to mean the resumption of sporadic outbreaks of fighting throughout southern Ireland.

As evidence of the government's desire to offer no provocation the scenes in Dublin yesterday were cited, it being pointed out that no British officers or soldiers were in evidence anywhere during the opening of the Dail Eireann.

Advance to Within Eight Miles of Turkish Last Defense

Smyrna, Aug. 17.—(By the Associated Press.)—King Constantine's fast-moving army is now within eight miles of the last real defensive positions of the Turkish Nationalists along the Sakarya river 60 miles west of Angora, the capital.

The Greek right wing is at present crossing the extensive salt desert to the south of this river with the intention of cutting off the retreat of the Turks toward Angora.

In all there are four great columns making a thrust toward the national seat of government and one striking to the north toward Ismid.

BOY BOUND OVER
ON THEFT CHARGE

Robert E. Buddie, 19 years old, has been bound to district court by Police Magistrate Cashman to await trial on a charge of grand larceny. His bond was fixed at $500.

The boy is alleged to have stolen $65 from a guest at a local hotel where he acted as bellhop. Chief of Police Martinson says the boy confessed to the theft, which was committed two or three months ago. The boy, he said, entered the room of a guest while the guest was asleep and took the money.

—Asks Injunction—

Los Angeles, Aug. 17.—Arrival of a trunk here last night consigned from San Francisco to Mrs. Madlynne Obenchain, held in jail here on charge of murder and the subsequent attempt of the sheriff's office to seize it as possible evidence against her, was the signal for a "fighting announcement" by her attorney, Ralph Obenchain, her divorced husband, according to a story which appears in the Los Angeles Examiner this morning.

The trunk, according to Mr. Obenchain's statement belongs to him but Mrs. Obenchain had been using it. Some property in it, he said, belonged to him. It is a regulation army locker trunk and, he said, was used by him when he was a lieutenant in the armed forces.

"I will apply for an injunction as soon as the office opens in the morning," his last night's statement said. He pointed out under a recent court ruling that it becomes a violation of constitutional rights to seize property for use against a defendant without a warrant describing the papers or evidence sought.

Los Angeles, Calif., Aug. 17.—Thomas L. Woolwine, district attorney, who has been conducting investigation of the slaying of J. Belton Kennedy, has left Los Angeles on a secret mission, it became known today. Information regarding his trip was refused at his office. It was said he would be gone about 10 days.

To the question: "Has Mr. Woolwine gone to Chicago to make investigation in the Kennedy case?" official attendants refused to reply. Report that the district attorney had gone to Chicago grew out of the announcement yesterday that Deputy Sheriff William Bright had left the city to interview acquaintances of Mrs. Obenchain and Arthur C. Burch, indicted for the alleged murder of Kennedy.

Asa Keyes, deputy district attorney, stated he was prepared to resist efforts of Ralph Obenchain, former husband and attorney of Mrs. Obenchain, to secure possession of a trunk ordered seized by the sheriff's office declared to contain possessions of the accused woman. It was admitted that the prosecution proposed to make the fight in the belief that the trunk contained articles or documents which may be used as evidence.

in Chicago

Chicago authorities investigating the circumstances of the death of Mrs. Mary DeBrito, who committed suicide in Chicago after according to Chicago dispatches, brooding over an article appearing in the August issue of Jim Jam Jems, have made no request on the governor's office for information concerning her letters, according to Mr. Campbell.

It was said yesterday in dispatches from Chicago that authorities were looking for a letter written by the editor of Jim Jam Jems to the woman in her reply to her protest to state authorities against an article she said approved the tar and feathering of a Texas doctor. Mr. Campbell had made public the letter previously to the announcement of authorities.

The coroner's jury returned a verdict that the woman had committed suicide while mentally deranged.

Investigators had been assigned the magazine to investigate circumstances connected with Mrs. DeBrito's action in protesting to the governor, but no report had been received, Mr. Campbell said. Information that had reached him, however, he said, was to the effect that Mrs. DeBrito, an advertising writer, had previously married a Brazilian and had lived in South America for a time.

CORONER'S VERDICT.

Chicago, Aug. 17.—Mrs. Mary DeBrito, winner of numerous beauty contests, killed herself while mentally deranged by failing health and despondency, according to a verdict returned by a coroner's jury at the inquest.

The causes leading up to the suicide were so peculiar, however, that Coroner Hoffman will make a further investigation of the affair.

According to stories told by the girl's relatives, she read an article entitled "The Plumed Knight" in a magazine published in North Dakota relating to the recent tarring and feathering of a Dr. J. S. Paul of Beaumont, Texas, by a band of masked men.

Mrs. DeBrito wrote the governor of North Dakota asking him to suppress the magazine. The letter was forwarded by the governor to the editor of the magazine. The editor, in replying to Mrs. DeBrito, said:

"If you are undergoing a 'reform' spasm, your own city and state afford you boundless opportunities. We didn't start your intrusion into our affairs, but we'll guarantee to finish it good and plenty."

It was in line of reprisal by the magazine, it is said, that Mrs. DeBrito went into her bathroom, connected a rubber tube to the jet and turned on the gas.

YANKEES LOOM STRONGER FOR AMERICAN FLAG

Cleveland Unable to Shake Off the Hard Hitting New York Club

PITTSBURGH GOES STRONG

New York, Aug. 16.—New York went to the fore in the see-saw American league pennant race Sunday when the Cleveland champions fell victim to the leading league twirler, Faber, of Chicago. However, the Indians, like the Pittsburgh Nationals, are setting a fast pace. While the Pirates are having little difficulty in keeping ahead of the New York Nationals, Cleveland has been unable to shake off the Yankees. The loss of catcher Numaker, whose leg was fractured Saturday, may handicap the Indians.

In the National race, Pittsburgh, which has taken five consecutive games from Chicago, appears to have a much steadier pitching staff than New York. Although hit hard in a few contests, the Pirate pitchers have been able to go the full distance. Pittsburgh seems also to have the edge on its rivals in fielding.

Boston Hopes Fall.
Boston's hope of reaching the top is dwindling. With a handicap of eight games to overcome in 20 to be played, the Braves would have to average two victories in three games while the Pirates were breaking even. The play of the Brooklyn club, in the west, was a surprise, the Superbas taking three series out of four. St. Louis and Chicago are doing well in both batting and fielding. The Cardinals lost several close games recently and the Cubs have been handicapped by ineffective pitching. Cincinnati play improved just enough to permit the Reds to benefit by Chicago's slump and go into sixth place. For a last team, Philadelphia is playing a fair game.

In the American league, Cleveland has failed to show the same run-scoring power as New York, although both met the same teams last week. Little difference is seen in a comparison of pitching strength. The home-run hitting combination of Ruth, Baker and Neusel, which had a total of 11 circuit hits last week has been of great aid to the Yankees.

The play of the Washington team has fallen off and the Senators are in danger of losing third place as St. Louis is coming up at a fast pace. The Browns are getting good pitching and are batting well. Detroit fell back to sixth place today, while Boston went into fifth. The Red Sox are playing a consistent game. The Chicago and Philadelphia pitchers have been hit hard. The Athletics made 101 hits for 45 runs in nine games against the Indians, and Yankees last week.

NET STAR STILL IN PIGTAILS

Out of the west has come a new tennis marvel, Miss Helen Wills, 15-year-old Californian.

Helen with her hair in pigtail braids plays sparkling tennis.

Forehand, backhand, volley or drive, the little miss plays with equal smoothness and brilliance.

Eastern stars have had to play their best to beat Helen. In another year she may duplicate May Sutton's triumphs if some 15 years ago she has youth and ability.

MILLE SUZANNE LENGLEN.

Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen, the 22-year-old French girl who holds the women's singles titles of France and England, is in America to meet America's best women net stars at Forest Hills. Mlle. Lenglen is the world champion. Her father taught her to place the ball on little squares so that she is now the most accurate tennis shot in the world. Her play is more sensational and colorful than any woman who ever became a star on the courts.

WOMEN OPEN TENNIS PLAY

Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen, French Champion, on Courts

Forest Hills, N. Y., Aug. 16.—The leading players entered in the thirty-fourth annual national women's tennis championship tournament came thru the first round without upset on the West Side club yesterday afternoon. Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen, holder of the world's championship of her sex, did not play. Her match with Miss Eleanor Goss was postponed until today.

While chief interest centered in the appearance of Mlle. Lenglen, the gallery was well rewarded by several of the grandstand court matches staged during the initial rounds. Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory, 1920 champion, defeated Mrs. Marion Zinderstein Jessup, 7-5, 6-0, and Mrs. B. E. Cole of Boston won from Miss Clara Cassel, New York, 7-9, 6-3.

Miss Marie Wagner, New York, fell before the more accurate stroking and greater agility of Miss Leslie Bancroft of Boston, who won, 7-7, 7-5.

Mrs. Mary K. Browne of Santa Monica, Calif., 1912-13-14 title holder, easily advanced to the second round, winning from Mrs. Brenda Hedstrom of Buffalo, 6-1, 6-1. Mrs. May Sutton Bundy of Los Angeles, 1904 champion and twice winner of the English championship at Wimbledon, won by default from Mrs. Marshall McLean, New York.

NEW MEN FOR FARGO SERIES

Jimmy Hightower, Minot pitcher, and Mille, shortstop, are expected to be with Bismarck during the Fargo series, according to the baseball management.

Hightower and Mille were not expected to reach Bismarck in time for the game called at 6:15 o'clock this evening because they are scheduled to play a game, but will be here for the remaining games.

Potter, of Dickinson, also is expected to join the club. The Bismarck team is going to win the series in good shape.

SILK PURSE FROM SOW'S EAR REALITY

Cambridge, Mass., Aug. 16.—A silk purse made from sow's ears, as chemistry's answer to the old saying that it couldn't be done, will be shown at the Chemistry Exposition in New York during the week of September 12.

In announcing the successful result of experiments, Arthur D. Little, Inc., chemists and engineers, of this city, said the silk was not very strong and that there was no present industrial value in the process involved. It was more or less the product of chemistry at play, but a contribution also to philosophy in proving the fallacy of the old proverb.

In reciting the factors that entered into the transition of sow's ears from Chicago stockyards to a silk purse such as a woman might carry, the chemists explained that the first step was to analyze the silkworm's method of making silk. This done, its caterpillar chemistry was copied in the laboratory.

It was found that men had to provide a substitute for a process by which the silkworm exudes from two fine ducts in its head minute threads of a viscous liquid, coated with another secretion, which are cemented into a double strand. This becomes a firm filament of silk when it coagulates on reaching the air.

Analysis of the viscous liquid showed it to be like glue and with somewhat similar chemical properties. The sow's ear being chiefly gristle and skin, also has the natural elements of glue. This was obtained from the ears and it was put through several processes of preparation, filtered under pressure and placed in spinning apparatus of a special design.

The solution of glue and chemicals came out as 16 very fine colorless streams, joined into one composite fibre, treated to give it strength and color, and processed yet again to obtain the desired soft, silky feel. The weaving followed on a small hand loom, the fabric was formed and the purse made.

COUNTRY SCHOOL STUDENTS AT DISADVANTAGE

New York, Aug. 16.—Disadvantages of the country school child in comparison with the city trained child are pointed out by Professor Mabel Carney of Columbia University, following a series of conferences with country school superintendents from all over the nation.

"Almost half the school children of the United States, that is 8,000,000, attend one or two teacher rural schools in buildings of the box-car type," Professor Carney said. "Many of these buildings are neglected beyond description."

"Their school term averages 137 days a year as against 187 days a year for city children. The average daily attendance for city school children is 80 per cent, while for country children it is 65 per cent."

"All this is greatly complicated by the question of child labor on the farm. It is estimated that one million and a half of country children are engaged in farm labor to their detriment and kept out of school. For this reason illiteracy is twice as great in rural as in urban territory."

"The country boy or girl is getting only about one-half the teaching ability, less than half the supervision and not quite half the efficient administration of school affairs that is everywhere accorded the more fortunate city child."

"That country children prosper as well as they do is due more largely to the wholesome influence of the average country home than to any advantage gained in the one-teacher school. The one-teacher school is an archaic institution and should be abandoned and replaced by consolidation as quickly as possible."

"The wisest and most direct solution of our national country life problem is to be attained through proper attention to the rural schools of the country."

COURT ATTEMPT TO BLOCK LAWS A POSSIBILITY?

The fall election, however, it was a horse of another color.

A further analysis of the Nestos senatorial vote reveals that he almost equalled Hanna's vote in the following counties being less than 100 votes behind him: Adams, Dickey, Foster and Grand Forks (Hanna had a lead over Nestos of only 32 votes in this county).

An examination of the Nonpartisan League papers reveals a well defined plan for the recall campaign. It is evident that Burdick's alignment has thrown the Farm Bureau and other cooperative agencies on the side of the league because the men behind these ventures feel more at home in that camp.

It all goes to show, say some, that a compromise fight won't attract voters in a vigorous class program. The I. V. A. program commits the state to ownership and operation of state industries in a limited degree, not on the theory that they believe in such ventures but that they want to let the farmers try them out." The I. V. A. leaders at the Devils Lake convention did not have sufficient courage to put out a "No Compromise" platform. They sought to make their platform conform as closely as possible to the original platform of the Nonpartisan league when Coates and Bowen were Townley's mentors.

When Walter Thomas MHA and Prof. Roylance arrived the program took on greater proportions.

Put the Devils Lake program beside that announced first by Townley and F. B. Wood when they started out on their agrarian drive and you note a slight distinction without a material difference. The plan approved milled elevators and a state owned bank restricted to rural credits.

There are some political leaders who would have liked to have seen the recall fight a knock down drag out contest against state socialism and anti-state socialism. But that is not to be. It is going to be substantially the same platform upon which Langer and O'Connor went down to defeat.

The only promise the I. V. A. is holding out is that their administration of these industries will be less political, a hard promise by the way to back up.

WAHPETON GLOBE IS NEW NAME OF OLD NEWSPAPER

Articles of incorporation have been filed with the Secretary of State for the Wahpeton Globe, successor to the Globe-Gazette, one of the best known weekly newspapers in the state.

According to information transmitted with the incorporation papers the Globe-Gazette company of which R. J. Hughes is the head has disposed of the Globe-Gazette newspaper to a company headed by R. M. Falley, who has been associated with the paper for 11 years. The Globe-Gazette company continues as a printing concern while the name of the paper is changed to The Globe.

The capital stock of the new Globe company is $25,000, the incorporators: R. M. Falley and H. O. Falley, of Wahpeton, S. R. Falley, M. R. Falley of Minneapolis and L. M. Harris, of Wahpeton.

Other articles of incorporation include: Minot Potato Marketing association; no capital stock; incorporators, David C. Stark, A. C. Erb, Grant Parezak, M. R. Porter, E. J. Aymond.

Brosz Elevator company, Ashley; capital stock, $25,000; incorporators, J. H. Wishek, Ashley; Fred Brosz, W. L. Johnson.

You'll pay the lowest possible price; you'll get real service; you'll get your money back if you're not satisfied.

Magnifying the Finger Print

THE proved oil producing area in the United States is estimated as only 4500 square miles. When you contrast this with the area of the United States—3,026,789 square miles—the proved area is but a finger print on the map.

Yet from this 4500 square miles must come the raw material to drive all of our motor driven machines, and practically all of the oil to lubricate the machinery which makes possible the happiness and prosperity of the nation.

To magnify this finger print is the task in which the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is engaged.

By reason of the Burton Process, which largely increases the amount of gasoline recoverable from a given quantity of crude oil, and dozens of other methods developed in its laboratories and refineries, the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has multiplied the quantity of finished petroleum products available for the use of men wherever they may live.

The development of the Burton Process has done more to promote the manufacture of automotive machinery than any other single discovery since the usefulness of gasoline as a fuel was made known. Because of it there is a plentiful supply of crude oil available today, and gasoline is selling for a low price. Without it the price of this fuel would be beyond the reach of the average man.

The use of this process is not confined to the refiners of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) alone, but is being made available to others under conditions which are just and equitable to all.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has a just pride in the work it has done, and is doing, to so increase the quantity and quality of its products as to make possible the use of labor saving machinery throughout the world.

Thus is the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) doing a big work in conserving the natural resources of the nation, and in helping others to do likewise.

WORLD'S OLDEST EXECUTIONER FLEES MEMORIES

"We're All Human. And They Say We Never Can Forget Anything." His Plaint

BY ALICE ROHE.
Hornell, N. Y., Aug. 17.—"You think you'd like to have me tell you what I think of the death penalty. Well, you wouldn't. It would be too much—too strong—too—too—"
A shadow fell over the grave face of the old man of 80, who was helping his white-haired wife prepare breakfast.

He was William C. Patterson, the world's oldest executioner. Only the day before had he come back to his birthplace to end his days, after thirty-three years' service at Auburn prison.

Of those thirty-three years, what memories—
They are memories Patterson is trying to bury.

The old man, so tender in his assistance to the little old lady, led to the death chair the first murderer in the world to be executed by electricity. The man's name was Kellner, a wife slayer.

It was an event which aroused the press of two continents.
Patterson led to the electric chair Czolgosz, assassin of President McKinley.

A woman, too, looks back through the memories of years at William Patterson. Her name was Mary Farmer and she was the only woman executed in Auburn prison.

"The law must be enforced the same for men and women," said Patterson, whose tone implied the unforgettable impression of leading that woman to her death.

"I've done my duty as a state official."

Servant of Law.
"No one can help feeling the terrible force of it all when a man is sent over into eternity," he mused.

"But I believe the men I've accompanied to their death knew I was only a faithful servant to the law. Some of them were too dazed to realize anything, but some of them—"

He turned at his wife's interruption. Mrs. Patterson, too, is 80.

"Yes—she's right—that's all finished now."

"Do visions of men you have led to the death chamber ever—"

My query was interrupted.

"We are all human," said Patterson, "and they say we never can forget anything."

"Do you think innocent men are ever executed?"

"It's a pretty good law of life to mind one's own business. I wasn't engaged as a judge at Auburn."

Growsome Relics.
Patterson has some growsome mementoes of his long service of the state.

One of them is a hickory stick which began to collect its sinister records when the name and date of the first man to be electrocuted was carved upon it.

Since then fifty-four names, each recording the paying of the death penalty by a homicide, have been added to the grim register. Fifty-four memories of condemned men the 80-year-old executioner led to the death chamber where he assisted in adjusting the leather mask and the electric des.

Patterson served three years during the Civil War with Company D, 80th N. Y. Infantry, receiving a shattered arm at Chancellorsville.

"But killing enemies of the nation on the battlefield," he says, "was different from killing enemies of society in prison."

In Auburn prison, strange as it may seem, the world's oldest executioner is remembered best for his dutiful, unflinching kindness to the condemned.

HONOR MEMORY OF CHIROPRACTOR

Davenport, Ia., Aug. 17.—Tribute to the memory of Dr. D. D. Palmer, discoverer of chiropractic, a science of drugless healing, and a review of the progress of the art since the first chiropractic adjustment in 1895, will be afforded at the birthplace of chiropractic in this city, when chiropractors from all parts of the country gather at the fifteenth national convention of the Universal Chiropractors association, Aug. 21 to 27.

With the tribute to the father of chiropractic, in the unveiling of the D. D. Palmer Memorial Bust, the association will also unite to honor his son, Dr. B. J. Palmer, who is generally regarded as the leader of the profession, and the one to whom most credit is due for the twenty-six years of developmental progress.

Annual commencement exercises of the chiropractic school here will be held as a part of the convention program on Thursday, Aug. 25. On the following Tuesday the legislative difficulties of the association will be discussed. Bernard Macfadden, physical culturist, will open the day's program with an address on "National Protection."

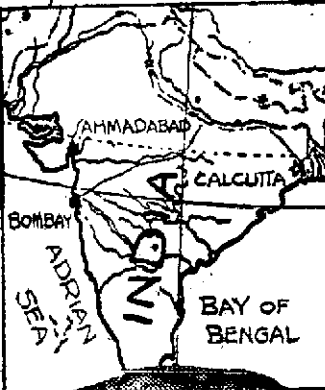

Legislative chairmen from the various states will continue the discussion.

One of the features of the Thursday afternoon meeting, Aug. 25, will be the annual convention of the Iowa Chiropractors' association. The Nebraska and Kentucky alumni banquets of the Palmer school will also be held that day.

WOMEN WHO OVERWORK.
"Man may work from sun to sun, but woman's work is never done." In order to keep the home neat and attractive, the children well dressed and tidy, women continually overdo and suffer in silence, drifting along from bad to worse, knowing full well that they need help to overcome the pains and aches which daily make life a burden.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a medicine with specific value which overcomes many of the worst forms of female complaints, as the letters constantly being published in this paper will prove.

BATTLING OVER INDIA

GANDHI, HINDU LEADER, A MAP OF INDIA SHOWING AHMEDABAD, GANDHI'S HOME, AND (BELOW) LORD READING, VICEROY OF INDIA.

GANDHI LEADS MILLIONS

Great Britain Regards Him As Dynamite and Sends Reading To Face Him

By Newspaper Enterprise.

London, Aug. 17.—The British government is trying to placate and retain India, as well as Ireland.

The principal obstacle in the path of Lord Reading, the new viceroy of India, is Mohandas Karamchand Gandhi, most famous of all Hindu leaders. Gandhi is head of the cult that bears his name, and is leading the fight to gain home rule in India by boycotting the British and their goods.

It was Lord Reading's reputation as a great diplomat that led to the one-time British ambassador to the United States being selected to go to India as viceroy last spring. Gandhism was fast gaining ground. Lord Reading's job, bluntly, was to "save India for England."

Leads 318,000,000.
And what of Gandhi, the "holy man" who exerts such influence over India's 318,000,000 people? What manner of man is he?

Gandhi was born 51 years ago, his father being chief minister of the state of Porbandar, for 25 years. He belongs to a Bani, or trading, caste, lives at Ahmedabad, the great mill center, is married and has four sons. He has founded a settlement near his home for the culture of truth in poverty, and for hand-weaving and primitive agriculture, believing that modern machinery is a work of evil.

Gandhi was educated in England, where he studied law. He went to South Africa, where he later gave up his practice to aid Hindus who were being persecuted by authorities there. It was in South Africa that Gandhi first preached his doctrine of passive resistance, a doctrine to which he still holds. He abhors violence, urging his followers rather to attain their aims by refusing to work for or have anything to do with their persecutors.

Often in Prison.

Gandhi served many terms in African prisons. But through it all he maintained an unexpected chivalry toward the British, halting his activities during the Boer war and organizing a hospital corps which he offered with his own services to the British. He was decorated for his work both in the Boer war and later in the World War, where he also performed hospital service.

Finally, broken in health by imprisonment, Gandhi returned to India. There he conceived the grandiloquent idea of a country-wide non-violent revolt against the British. No Hindu would use British goods, work for British employers or take recourse to the British courts. Thus British rule would become impossible, the British native army would melt, and England would finally be glad to leave India to its own resources. That was Gandhi's dream.

Spreads Doctrine.

He renounced western clothes and customs, shaved his head, wrapped himself in a shabby robe, and in his bare feet, like a traveling mendicant, he began to preach his doctrine to the natives of all classes.

Followers docked to him by the thousands. Gandhi is a thin man, and small. He eats only fruits. He is usually ill—the result of long imprisonment. He has no power of oratory. He remains seated in a chair when he talks to the crowds. But thousands hang on his every word. His own unselfishness and his reputation for truth magnetize them.

The British government realizes that Gandhi is dynamite. And so it has put Lord Reading, often called "Britain's cleverest man" on the job. Lord Reading has conferred with Gandhi. But what took place at the conference no one knows.

"BIG GAME" SHOWS PRIMITIVE COURAGE

May Allison Has Good Medium In Photoplay Adaptation Of Stage Success

All lovers of the photoplay, with the gift of discriminating pictures of distinction and rare merit from the ordinary, will unite in heralding the announcement that "Big Game," starring May Allison, the popular Metro star, will come to the Bismarck Theatre tonight and tomorrow.

May Allison has won a numerous following by her appealing personality, and in this photoplay adaptation of the famous New York stage success by Willard Robertson and Kilbourn Gordon, she has a medium for the rich expression of her dazzling personality.

The reason "Big Game" will be enjoyed by everybody without exception is that its appeal is so universal, the story of a man's fight to convince himself that he is no coward, and to save the woman he loves. May Allison has the part of Eleanor Winthrop, the charming wife of "Larry" Winthrop, heir to the millions of the old Boston Winthrops. She believes Larry the essence of all things manly, but during an adventure in the Northern Canadian woods, to find hidden gold, her conviction totters when she finds him afraid of Henri Baptiste, a Canadian-French guide. Baptiste is bent on winning Eleanor by force, and the transformation of Larry from a weakling to an infuriated vengeful primitive is one of the fine achievements of the picture.

The supporting cast includes Forrest Stanley, Edward Cecil, Zeffie Tilbury, William Elmer and Sidney D'Albrook. Edward T. Lowe, Jr., did the adaptation, Dallas Fitzgerald directed, and Jackson Rose photographed. Sidney Ullman is responsible for the art designs and execution.

MUSIC MORE DEMOCRATIC SAYS TEACHER

Minneapolis, Aug. 17.—Music has been democratized in the public schools here with the result that 1,500 pupils have been taught to play the violin and piano at a practically negligible cost. When the full term starts, it is planned to enlist still more students in the study, according to T. P. Ciddings, supervisor of music in the public schools.

Although no violinists a la Kreisler or Elman have been discovered and no second Rachmaninoff found, the music students, who range from 7 to 14 years, are mastering the initial rudiments of the instruments.

For each lesson, a charge of 10 cents is made. Classes are organized where 16 or more children can get together and instruction in the violin and piano is given the group at the same time.

When the term ended for the summer vacation, 500 pupils were attempting to master the violin, while 100 prospective piano players were obtaining their elementary practice.

In addition, stressing of music in the public schools has been responsible for the formation of 45 school orchestras, any of which can give good account of their musical instruction. So much interest is displayed in these latter organizations, that keen competition exists for places in the orchestra, according to Miss Ruth Anderson, who is directing the orchestra work.

TESTIFIES IN TUFTS TRIAL

MRS. HELEN WEAVER SEWALL, WHOSE DEPOSITION EXONERATES DISTRICT ATTORNEY NATHAN A. TUFTS OF MIDDLESEX COUNTY, MASSACHUSETTS, OF DIVORCE TRAP CHARGE.

WOMAN DENIES USE OF VAMP

Former Mrs. Stearns Comes To Aid of District Attorney Under Fire

BY EDWARD THIERRY.

Boston, Aug. 17.—The Stearns divorce case is only one of many legal proceedings by Attorney General J. Weston Allen to remove District Attorney Nathan A. Tufts from office. The supreme court soon will render its decision.

Allen charges Tufts with malfeasance in office in connection with the "Eden reveals at Mishawum Manor in 1917. On this occasion many movie men were guests at a dinner at the manor and girls were employed to entertain them.

It is charged that subsequent to the dinner efforts were made to obtain hush money from the movie men. It was, as a result of his investigation of this affair that Allen started proceedings against Tufts.

Woman's Testimony.

In pressing his case Allen tried to show that Tufts laid a divorce trap for Captain Charles Ephraim Stearns, U. S. A., in which a pretty girl vamp was the bait. But the former Mrs. Stearns, now Mrs. Helen Weaver Sewall, absolutely and completely exonerates Tufts.

Allen obtained testimony that Mrs. Stearns in 1918 asked Tufts to take her divorce case.

It was charged that Tufts told Mrs. Stearns she had no case, but that a case "could be made"—that he could send a pretty woman to trap Stearns.

The girl vamp, according to the testimony, was "Miss Pennington," with whom Captain Stearns later was caught in a raid in Cambridge in June, 1918.

The former Mrs. Stearns denied all of this evidence.

She declared Tufts refused to take the case because of his official position. She also denied Tufts sent her to another attorney.

Further, she said, "Miss Penning-

FARGO GROCER SURPRISED AT HIS RECOVERY

Can Eat Anything Now—Sleeps Like A Boy And Feels Fine All The Time

There's no doubt about it, this Tanlac delivers the goods," said A. L. Olson, well-known grocer of Fargo, N. D., whose place of business is located at 710 North Tenth St.

"A man has to have indigestion like I did to know what misery is. I used to eat anything after every meal and get no sleep. I used to go to the table, I used to get awful headaches, and at the end of the day I would have to grab hold of something to keep from falling. I used to have bilious spells, often too, and my back hurt me so much I could get very little sleep.

"I never had a bigger surprise in my life than the way Tanlac took hold of me and made me feel like a new man. I eat anything I want, sleep like a top and get up in the morning feeling fine. Tanlac did a hundred per cent job for me and I don't hesitate to recommend it."

Tanlac is sold by leading druggists everywhere.

Stearns' Story.

A deposition by Captain Stearns declared that he met a "Miss Pennington" in a hotel lobby while he was stationed at Fortress Monroe, Va., and that she invited him to her apartment, but he declined.

He next met her, he said, on the street in Waltham the day of the Harvard commencement exercises in June, 1918. Stearns, who is a Harvard graduate, said he drove with her to the exercises and that later they went to a Boston hotel, had dinner, and then went to her flat in Cambridge.

Suddenly two men broke into the room and said they represented an attorney and advised Stearns to see this lawyer.

The long-drawn out case against Tufts is nearly finished. Many volumes of testimony have been heard by the full bench of the state supreme court.

ADVANCE TIPS ON FALL FASHIONS

SKIRTS WITH OR WITHOUT!

What? Hoops! Also Long or Short, They're Right For Fall

BY MARIAN HALE

New York, Aug. 17.—Here's the long and short of it—satorically speaking.

As the new fall suits walked forth at New York's recent fashion show—everybody gasped. "But I thought skirts were going to be worn longer this year!"

They are. But not so long that you will trip over them.

Fall fashions suggest fall suits the very first thing. The advance displays of coat and skirt combinations show straightened skirts which get shorter in proportion to the shortness and fullness of the coat. The new flare box coat is accompanied by a straight skirt—not very much longer than last year's models.

But with the slightly fitted in models—like the Hickson rust velvet trimmed in Caracul—the skirts are much longer.

Fur Trimmings.

Nearly all of the smart suits are fur trimmed—high choker collars and fur on the sleeves. Collars and sleeves by the way, offer many novelties. Some of the latter are very large bell-shaped while others have cuffs of fur with the bell-shaped flare uncaught in the cuff. Vesteas of moleskin or other soft fur sometimes vary the lines of the box flare coats.

Fur, ever in evidence, is shown, too, on the fall coats whose silhouette has changed from last season's ample kimono. Large set-in sleeves, they have a spaciousness, however, that resembles the kimono sleeve. The new fitted waistline is noticeable in many of the fall coats while belts also are good.

Spanish Ideas

Old Spain does more than suggest an influence in evening wraps. Richly embroidered Spanish shawls (which, by the way, come from China or the Philippines) envelop the smart woman. But for those who are Spanish-shawless, Grean has designed a Wanda wrap which has all the suggestions of Seville.

One almost wants to serve castanets with this long-fingered, subtly fashioned strip, wrapped about the figure. The small hat is distinctly Spanish in form, too, as are many of the fall chapeaux.

Lucile Compromises.

Lucile has compromised between the long and short in dinner gowns. The embroidered flame net falls from

U. S. AND PARIS WON'T MIX IN GOWNS

By Newspaper Enterprise

New York, Aug. 17.—"The hand of the American dressmaker and the taste of the American woman are fatal to the Paris gown."

That's the verdict of Samuel Morris Livingston, importer of women's apparel with headquarters in Paris.

Gorgeous French models are spoiled, Livingston says, when bits of expensive lace and ornaments are cut to make the gown fit the American purse.

American women favor straight lines in their gowns, Livingston says, and hence American gowns lack the femininity of the French models.

the neck in its simmy fullness far on the ground. The lace embroidered gown steps well above the ankles. The tiny, wired skirt, edged with cable, suggests the hippy hoop skirt. A head-dress harmonizing with the frock, is worn with many evening dresses by Lucile models.

Hoop effects are shown in two quite different ideas by Hickson and Joseph. The Hickson model of grad taffeta is wired over the hips while Joseph's afternoon gown of black faille is almost like the old-fashioned hoop skirt, full around the ankles.

Riding Trousers

But while full skirts suggest great-grandmother, the new riding habits certainly bring great-grandfather to mind. Nardi has created the last word in riding habits in the smart frock-

TALE OF A WIFE WHO WASN'T TRUTHFUL

BY RUTH AGNES ABELING. She wasn't intentionally untruthful.

She never lied to put over any really big thing.

But she seldom told the truth and the wedding day had not been long past when her husband realized it.

He came to understand that her code of morals didn't preclude the practice of all the petty deception and subterfuge she could make serve her purpose.

She would have been amazed and thoroughly hurt if any one had ventured to tell her she was dishonest. Indeed, if she was selling a second-hand piece of furniture to a neighbor she was frank about its age, its defects and its original price.

But her husband, since he was one of the family, was treated differently. She had no scruples about telling him that she wasn't going to buy a certain expensive garment and agreeing with him that they needed the money more for other things or to save, while at that very moment the garment was hidden away in the clothes closet and the charge for it entered on the books of the shop.

Money, supposed to have been used to pay bills, went in small bits for to share in the charitable enterprise, whether or not he wants to.

There are a lot of pretty clear thinking people in this country who question the wisdom of the policy of helping the Russians, either privately or publicly.

Their idea is that the causes of the Russian famine are such that they will be recurrent every year until socialism, with all its attendant chaos and horrors, is overthrown. And they argue that the best way to bring about this overthrow is to let nature take its course in Russia, instead of trying to interfere with its inexorable processes.

The statement of Hoover that "the famine in Russia is of an extent entirely beyond the resources of all the available private charities of the world in these times of economic hardship," sharply raises the question as to what the policy of the governments is to be.

It is a big question and there is much to be said on both sides of it.

THRIFT

John D. Rockefeller, the world's richest man, and his brother William, many times a millionaire, stopped for the night recently at a Saratoga Springs hotel.

They occupied comfortable rooms, but by no means the most expensive ones.

The expensive rooms were probably occupied by persons in straightened financial circumstances, putting up a "front" to impress their fellow guests and gratify their own vanity.

The Rockefeller habits of personal thrift have let them in for a lot of criticism by people, who would be much happier and better off in every way if they had practiced them themselves.

CUCKOOS

"The only bird that lives in a flat is the cuckoo—and he doesn't amount to much."

This bit of wisdom is dropped by E. K. Cormack, president of the National Building Supply Association, who is urging people to build their own homes. Cormack insists you can build a home cheaper this year than you can next year.

Of course, this argument may be taken with a grain of salt from a man in his line of business, but Cormack adds something more which is very true:

"A home isn't a money investment. It's an investment in happiness, comfort and good citizenship. You really can't feel like a family unless you live under your own roof. And any one by hard work and sacrifices can acquire a home somewhere."

DIPLOMACY

President Obregon of Mexico has rather cut the ground from under those who have been protesting against the export tax on Mexican oil.

He has announced that it is his policy to apply all the money raised from this tax, on the interest and principal of the Mexican foreign debt.

EDITORIAL REVIEW

Comments reproduced in this column may or may not express the opinion of The Tribune. They are presented here in order that our readers may have both sides of important issues which are being discussed in the press of the day.

INCALCULABLE

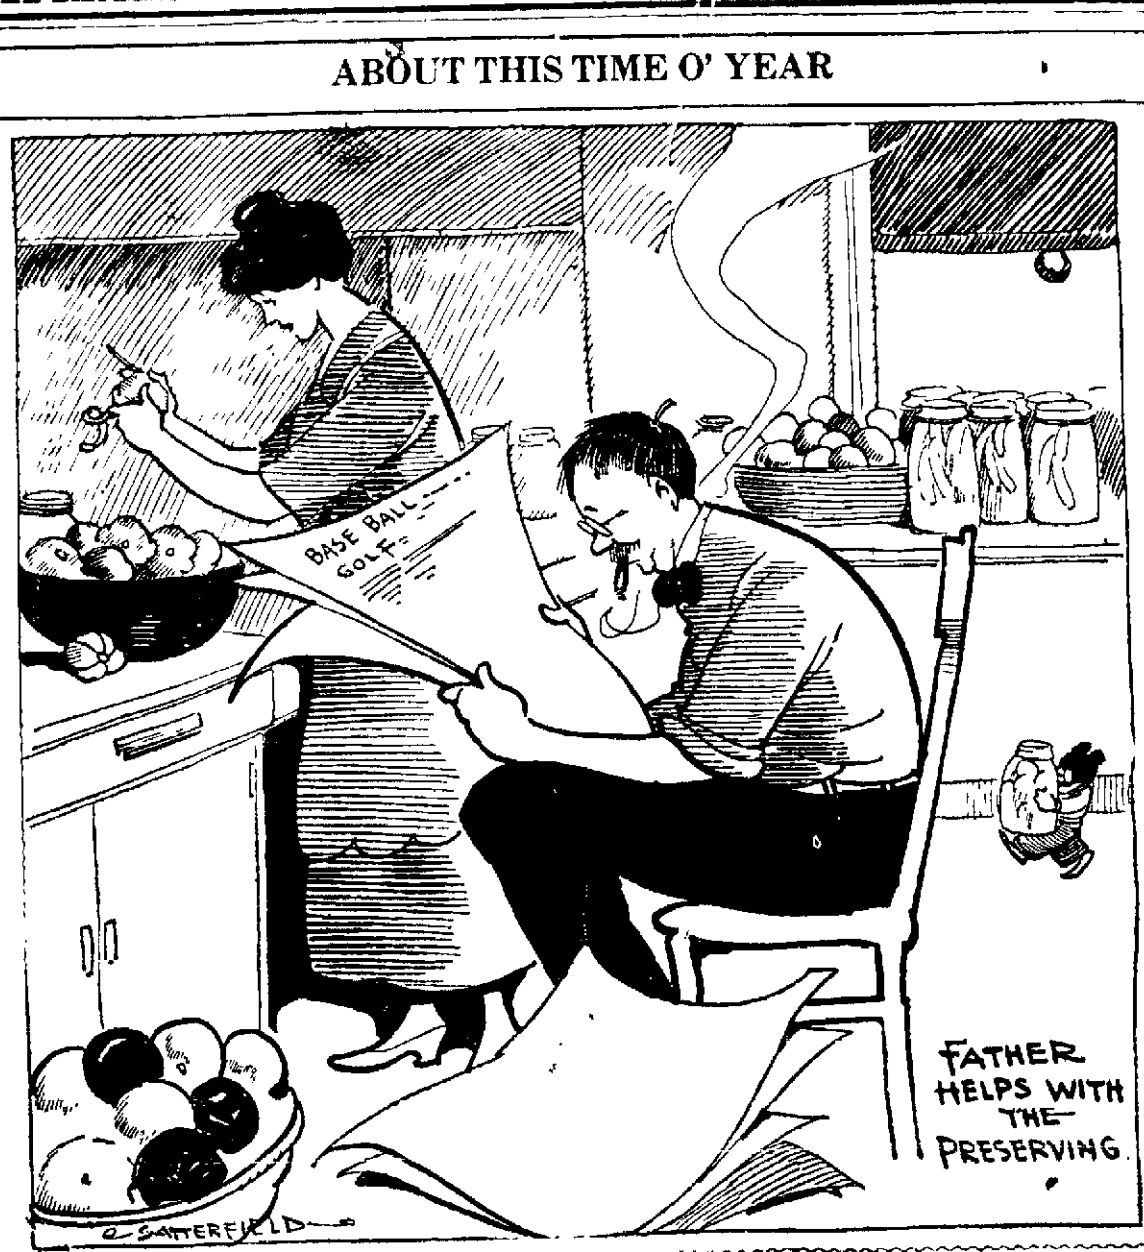

For inefficient labor while the railroads were operated by the Government they cannot recover. Such, at least, is the decision of the Interstate Commerce Commission. It holds that the phrases "in the Government contract," "the cost of labor," cannot be made to cover the extra cost caused by slackers and shirkers and undisciplined dawdlers nominally at work for the roads. Furthermore, the commission maintains that no system of accounting, no cost sheets, can show in dollars and cents exactly what was the loss due to "soldiering" on railway jobs. The claims made by the roads foot up tens of millions, but the Interstate Commerce Commission argues that there is no way of proving the figures correct.

The facts behind the figures are not denied. No one calls in question the demonstrable inefficiency of labor under Government control. It was notorious. A part of it took the form of less work during the legal wage day and exorbitant charges for over-time. The general air of listlessness and indifference and of being very much at ease in the Zion of a Government job was not concealed. In terms of money, the shortcoming may be incalculable; but there is no doubt whatever that it was actual, and that in terms of demoralization and social harm it can be estimated with sufficient accuracy. The whole case simply shows over again that work of the Government, by the Government and for the Government makes enterprise and diligence perish.—New York Times.

RATHER HIGH PROFITS

Consumers of candy will view with mingled delight and wonder the announcement of a New York chain store company of a drop of approximately 50 per cent in the price of all confections sold by it. "We have been making not 100 but 300 per cent profit for a long time. This kind of business, if kept up, would create a panic."

We have our doubts if the continued high price of candy would create a panic. But if the profits have been really as high as claimed and the drop in price in this line is a sincere determination to secure justice for the consumer, the result will be the same. People who want candy will be able to buy it, which we suppose, is what the men who sell it desire after all.—Buffalo Commercial.

ABOUT THIS TIME O' YEAR

By Florence Borner.

Said Mrs. Duck Waddles, to Mrs. Biddy Hen:

"I would like for you to answer, if you can, a question that has bothered me for many, many days. And perhaps you may suggest a wiser plan."

"The eggs I lay are large and smooth. While yours are very small. Yet mankind hurries to get yours, And won't buy mine at all."

"So I would ask you? Mrs. Hen. Just why these things are so; You are a grand success in life. So surely you must know."

"Dear Mrs. Duck," said Biddy Hen. "It is not always size. Nor is it eggs large, smooth and clean That takes the public's eyes."

"So I've a system of my own That's tried and true—don't doubt it; I lay my egg then hurry out To tell the world about it."

"If you would always have success Don't do things on the sly; Just advertise it good and strong—The world will come to buy."

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS
By Olive Barton Roberts

It was a good thing for everybody that Mr. Sprinkle-Blow had brought his magical lasso along with him from his farm. Even though he had not succeeded in catching that old rascal Whizzy Tornado, it helped to undo a great deal of the mischief that Whizzy had done.

They lassoed Mr. Lion and Mr. Tiger as easily as you could catch Munchie Mouse, and the camel and the moose and the elephant and all the other animals that had escaped from the Zoo, went back like lambs when Nancy and Nick led the way. And the pelicans and cockatoos, bitters and hornbills went back, too, when the twins told them that the poll parrots had returned.

So that was tried. But finding the lost families of

Recall Cauldron

BY THE POT BOILER

Friday August 19, is the date set for the firing of the recall petitions. Great interest will attach to the names, as affording a special line on who in state offices now will align themselves with the movement openly. Will the names of John Steen, Minnie Neilson, Thomas Hall, E. J. Taylor and others who have been aligned actively against the league be found there?

It is interesting history about John Steen a popular figure with all factions because of the absolutely non-political administration of his office. It will be remembered that he issued a special statement before the Mingo convention standing on the Grand Forks platform which endorsed mills and elevators.

While it is generally expected that these state officials will support the recall there has been no formal statement from the state officials who were endorsed at Mingo and who won of fices through the efforts of the I. V. A.

This situation is interesting many people over the state. Probably the issue is not material or vital and it may just be possible that these officials will not sign recall petitions. All idea of a recall reprisal on the part of the league doubtless has been abandoned. It was rumored at one time that recall petitions would be circulated against Independent state officials, but at no time could this agitation be traced definitely to league sources.

Returning to the Steen statement, the state treasurer made it plain that he was against much of the program being urged by William Langer and his followers. It was in the form of a letter to the Fargo Forum and was a vigorous exposition of his political views. He stood at that time for merely carrying out the mills and elevator enterprises as a matter of expediency because of the popular referendum.

The I. V. A. program contemplates a rural credit bank and the salvaging of the league program and a gradual scrapping of the remains with the exception of the mills, elevator and the bank.

There has been no expression for publication from Miss Neilson. Thomas Hall or others who have fought in the front ranks during the former battles. William Langer has prepared no statement for North Dakota consumption, but when in other states he declared that he was going to return to North Dakota to "fight Townleyism." Whether that means stepping up shoulder to shoulder with the I. V. A. organization is as Kipling would say, "another story."

Mr. Langer has never had much admiration for the I. V. A. His friends claim that he was sacrificed at the primaries while Theodore Neilson and others maintain the opposite was the truth and that everything was done for Langer that was possible.

MARKETS

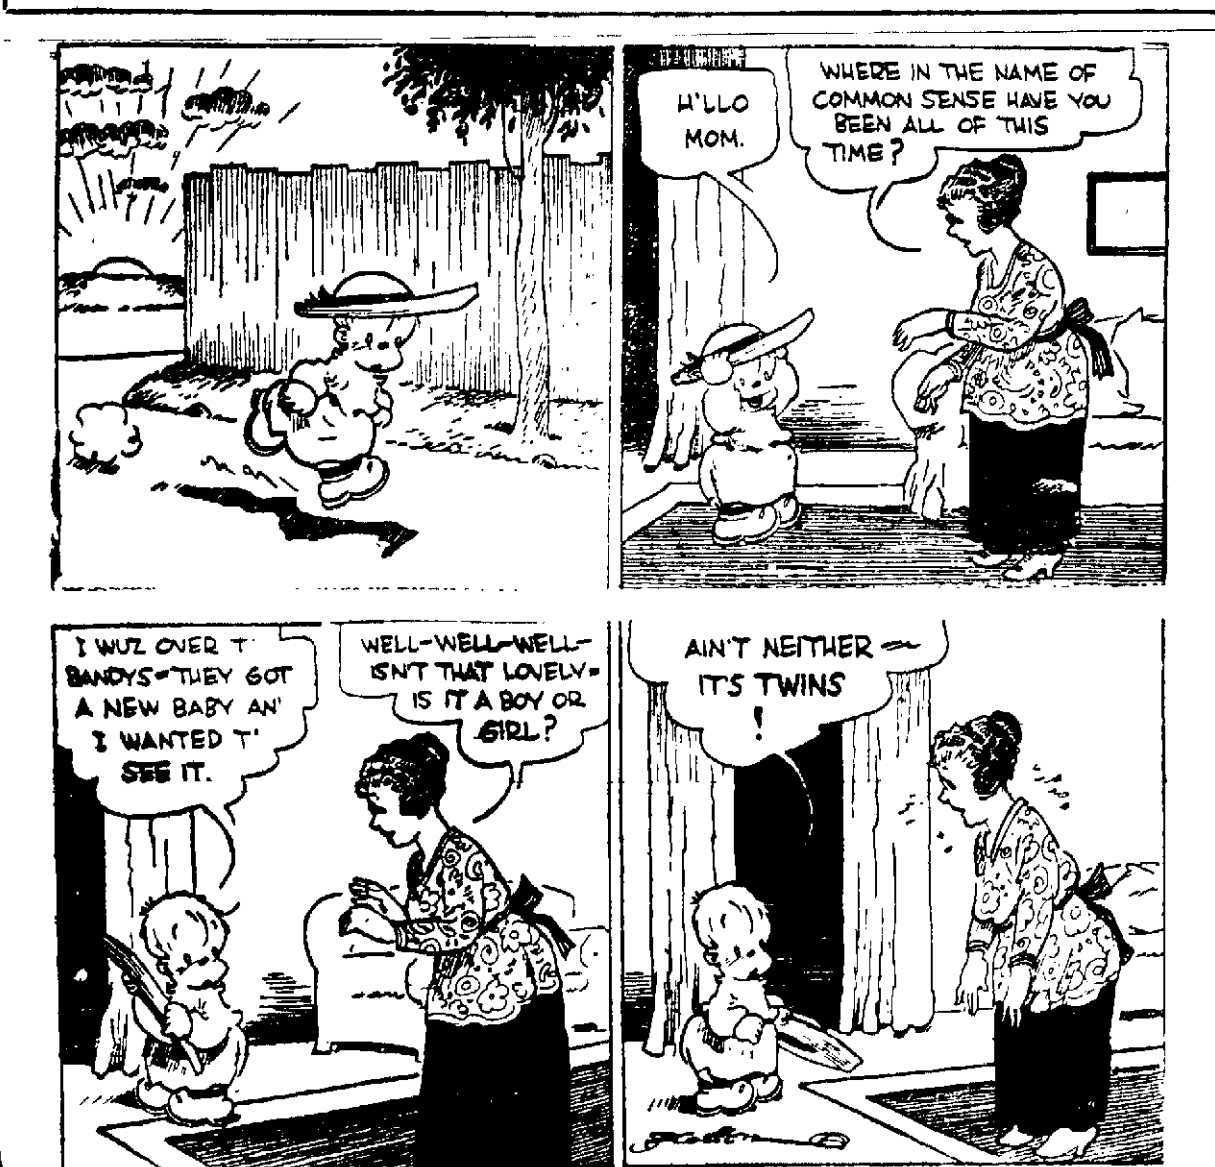

Chicago, Aug. 17.—Wheat underwent fresh declines in price today largely owing to continued weakness in the New York stock market and to reports about general business conditions.

Opening quotations, which varied from unchanged to 3-4 cent lower were followed by a material general setback.

Hallies failed to hold. The market closed heavy 2-1-4 to 3 cents net lower.

ST. PAUL LIVE STOCK
South St. Paul, Aug. 17.—Cattle receipts 4,000. Slow, no good or choice beef steers here. All other killing cattle generally weak to 25 cents lower;

BEELY DODD, THE "MAN WHO SCALPS HIMSELF"

Some historians have asserted that Beely Dodd was a myth, but some of the old scouts who knew him well do not agree with them. "Ask some of the Indians who hunted along the old Santa Fe trail about 'The Man Who Scalps Himself,'" they said, with a laugh. "Take California Joe, Dodd was a practical joker, and one of his jokes once defeated a band of Indians and saved a wagon train from the horrors of a massacre."

Dodd was guiding a caravan of traders to Santa Fe. At night they parked their wagons in a circle with the horses corralled inside to prevent their being stampeded if Indians attacked. Outside the circle guards were posted to give warning at the first appearance of a savage.

Just before daylight one morning the traders were awakened by a shot, and rushed out to find a guard lying wounded on the ground. In the next instant a band of Pawnees charged down on the train. A fierce battle followed. The Indians who attacked the train were reinforced by a larger band and in a short time it became evident that the train, whose defenders were hopelessly outnumbered, was doomed. Suddenly Dodd, whose rifle had knocked down more than one painted warrior, threw aside his weapon and dashed outside the circle of wagons.

Howling fiercely, he rushed into the midst of the charging Pawnees. Before the Indians could recover from their surprise at his bold act, Dodd whipped out his long knife, ran it around the edge of his hair, and with a wild yell, tore off his shock of black hair and waved it about his head.

It was too much for the Pawnees. With a howl of terror, they broke and ran. Dodd was a swift runner—he could hold his own in running beside a galloping buffalo. It is said—and he pursued the frightened Redskins, shrieking and waving his "scalp" until they left him far behind. A wig had saved a wagon train!

After that time any wagon train which Beely Dodd guided over the Santa Fe trail was safe if the Indians saw Dodd in the lead. They had no use for a man who could scalp himself and still live.

What became of Beely Dodd and where he died is as much a mystery as his birth and early life. He played his little role as a comedian in the drama of the West, and then, like many greater actors, he passed on and was soon forgotten.

OLD BILL HAMILTON'S STRANGE DUEL WITH AN ENGLISHMAN

One of the greatest of the old-time mountain men in western history was William T. Hamilton, or "Old Bill" Hamilton as he was known in the early days in Montana. His strange duel with an Englishman is historic. Old Bill had offended the Englishman in some way, and the Britisher challenged him to a duel.

"All right; I'll fight you!" said Old Bill. "But I got to name the weapons and rules for the fight."

The Englishman agreed, and this is what Hamilton decided: Each man was to strip to the skin, go out to the Yellowstone river, and with an ax chop a hole in the ice. Then the two men were to get down in these holes and sit in the water up to their shoulders. The first to leave this icy bath was the loser.

The contest began. The Englishman stood it for a few minutes. Then with a wild yell he leaped out and, with his teeth chattering, ran for a house and a stove as fast as he could. Old Bill followed close on his heels, calling the silvering Britisher every name in his vocabulary. Old Bill was declared winner of the duel. It had been no hardship for Hamilton. He had lived among the Indians and was as hardy as they. He is said to have been the only white man of his time who could strip naked, take a bow and arrows and shoot buffalo from a back as well as the savages, with whom he lived.

Hamilton finally settled down at Fort Benton, Mont., where he opened a log cabin hotel and a butcher shop. The governor of Montana appointed him sheriff of Chouteau county, and he was also a deputy United States marshal. In 1865 the governor asked him to visit the Crow and Gros Ventre Indians and persuade them to come in to Fort Benton to make peace.

"But how can I go?" said Old Bill. "I have to look after my outhouse and butcher shop, and tend to my duties as sheriff and marshal. I've got two prisoners on hand now and no jail to keep 'em in."

Finally he consented and accompanied only by an Indian boy he made the dangerous trip. After a series of exciting adventures he returned in safety, bringing the two tribes with him to the council.

Old Bill died in 1908 at the age of eighty-six. He was always proud of the feat that he had been a scout for the United States army, and to the day of his death he kept the Stars and Strips flying over the little log cabin where he lived.

WITH THE FUNNY MEN

Often Go Together.

"A popular novelist says women are not as intelligent as men."

"If I were in his shoes I wouldn't make a statement like that," said the book reviewer.

"Why not?"

"He might cut down his royalties. There's a close affinity between bou-bons and 'best sellers.'"

Wasn't Going That Far.

Country Parson (to farmer belaboring his horse)—Say, my good man, with all this cursing and beating of your horse, you'll never get to heaven.

Farmer Hays—That might be, but I'm only going to town with a load of potatoes!

Simplicity of Greatness.

"Really great men have very simple natures."

"Sometimes they have," said Miss Cayenne; "and on the other hand, they show their powers of dissimulation by seeming so gentle and truthful that you couldn't suspect the slightest motive of personal interest."

Very Considerate.

"Did the motorist who ran over you show any consideration whatever?"

"He certainly did," said the victim. "And I marveled at the exhibition. He examined that confounded car of his from stem to stern to see if it had been damaged anywhere."

The Ruling Class.

The Depositor—What's the idea of this new clearing house association rule fixing noon for your opening hour? Think it'll suit the public?

The Bank President—No, not that. But our cooks and chauffeurs object to getting up so early.

Practical Interchange.

"A soft answer turneth away wrath," remarked the expert in quotations.

"True," replied Mr. Dustin Stax; "but in regular business a soft answer isn't as valuable as a hard bargain."

NOT PARTICULAR

"Now you may kiss my hand."

"No thank you, your lips are quite good enough for me."

Just Like a Girl.

She stood before the mirror. With her eyes closed very tight, and tried to see just how she looked when fast asleep at night.

Maybe So.

"That doctor must know his biz. I feel better already."

"That's the result of stepping out of his gloomy old anteroom into the sunlight."

"Well, maybe he knows his biz, at that."

Not Then.

Mrs. Eye—Misery loves company, you know.

Mrs. Wye—Not always, my dear. I guess you never had on very tight shoes when company called and stayed three mortal hours.

Practical.

"They married for love?"

"Yes."

"And now she's suing him for divorce?"

"Yes. Discovered that she had to have something to eat as well."

Couldn't Get It.

"Mamma," said the inquisitive child, "I don't think that towel is such a loud color."

"It isn't, son. What makes you say that?"

"Then why do they call it crash?"

The Puzzle.

"What?" said Hings. "I know what puzzles me?"

"Now, what?" inquired Jings.

"I can never figure out which end 't' be sorry for a man's exercising a pet dog on a lead chain."

The Art of the Off-Hand.

"That latest speech of yours sounded as if it were thoroughly extemporé."

"Thanks," replied Senator Sorghum. "I worked over it for weeks in order to make it convey that impression."

Says Which.

Maek—What's funnier than a one-armed man trying to wind his wrist watch?

Knuff—A glass eye at a keyhole.

Not Dumb

"Are you, kind of dumb animal?"

"Yes," replied Mr. Gumbo. "My objection to the pets group is the horse group. Most of them are wallflowers."
